

Parents,

Are you aware of the fact that your home is a school and you have been teaching? Unlike the school which runs from 9 to 3, your home is a school with no recess, and you are always teaching by what you are, by what you say and do. Your children are constantly "picking-up" knowledge, attitudes, values...from you and the activities and incidents of everyday family living. The truth is children are imitators! They learn more from your examples than from your verbal instructions. This truth is well illustrated in an Aesop's Fables, "The Two Crabs":

Instruction Begins

Examples Accomplish!
